Chapter - I

1.* Mohammedan Law :- (Sources) :-

Muslim law is a personal law as it applies to only those persons whom are Muslims by religion. A person is Muslim if he has belief in unity of God and Mohammad as the prophet of God. 'La illaha illa lah Mohammad uz rasool Allah' which means there is only one god and Mohammad is his prophet. once a person has faith in the unity of God and Mohammad as the prophet of God, then he is regarded as Muslim and Muslim law applies to him in the matters of marriage, dower, divorce, guardianship, gift, will etc. Muslim law applies to all persons who are Muslims by birth or Muslims by religion or who converted into Islam.

Muslim law is a divine law as it is not made by any particular man. it is divinely inspired to the prophet and therefore it is regarded as 'word of God'.

Muslim law has been originated from various sources. these sources of Muslim law are

1. The Quran.
2. The Sunnah
3. Ijmaa.
4. Qiyas
5. Customs and usages.
6. Judicial decisions.

Introduction Administrative Law :-

9/3/05

Utility:-

It gives feed back of knowledge for legal profession.

Introduction, nature & scope:-

It is not an independent branch but it is the part & parcel of the constitutional law, it can be called as extension of it or application of this law can be seen in various provisions in constitution.

constitutional law is a public law means it deals with relation between individual & state.

private law means the law governing the relation between two individuals.

Need to make it independent from the law of constitution:-

modern circumstances & development. It was noticed that the constitutional law has its limitations which is not adequate enough to tackle the practical realities.

As the administrative law deals with the administration which means that it must be as old as the administration of govt.

How old the Administrative law could be?

Roots of the administrative law were traced to the relation between individual & state. Though the institution of state was not these entities but there were rulers who had their own kingdom and administration was not a new phenomenon.

This branch is not totally new. the existence of this law can well be traced even in scriptures like Mahabharata. Even the great books like Arthashastra reveal nothing but the administration of the executive power.

Institution of state undergone a change & there was a change in the function of state also.

police state → law state → social welfare state.

maintenance of law & order → protection & freedom of choice & contract → welfare of state & parents patriya.

As the function of the state underwent change due to these changes their powers were required to be changed accordingly. Therefore the constitutional law was found inadequate as there were difficulties due to the ever changing nature of the functions.

1] social research has a ^{imp.} crucial role to play in guiding social planning. Adequate social planning depends for its success on a systematic knowledge. Any effort of social planning is bound to fail if it is based on fictitious assumptions of planner.

2] since the knowledge is a particular kind of power social research by offering first hand knowledge about the organisation & working of society & its institutions, gives us a greater power of control over the social phenomena.

3] knowledge is enlightenment. It dispels the trust of outworn assumptions, superstitions & stereotypes. Social research thus may be expected at least to afford a more solid basis for people to hold whatever opinion they do.

4] social welfare can be achieved through socio-legal science research. By virtue of deeper understanding of the various problems it provides a secure basis for effective remedial measures.

5] social science research affords a considerably sound basis for medication. It has the effect of initiating & guiding social growth on proper lines & towards the cherished goals.

6] The purpose of social science research is to effect modifications in the prevailing techniques of research & when occasion demanded to invent new ones to take the best out of the situation.

7] The purpose of social science research is to measure dynamic social phenomenon in a active manner.

- social planning.
- control over the social phenomenon.
- to eradicate outworn assumptions, superstitions & stereotypes.
- social welfare.
- modification of existing theories & invention of new one.
